

Questions and Answers - Dated March 3, 2012

Note: Some questions have been edited for clarity.

Question 1: I am confused by the answer to Question #7 of Amendment 2; that is, the cover page and transmittal letter are one in the same and limited to one page. In prior proposals that I worked, we always wrote a letter (2-3 pages) separate from the proposal addressing and summarizing the content of our complete proposal. Sometimes this letter was included in the binder sometimes not. In addition we had a cover page for the proposal that addressed proposal particulars like title, from, to, disclosure of data, export control disclosure. The content of these two documents are very different. Please clarify.

Answer 1: For this NRA, the cover page and the abstract, as described in the NRA, will be sufficient, and they are viewed as analogous to a transmittal letter. No separate transmittal letter is required. Reference NRA 4.2.8.11.2 for page count limitations.

Question 2: The previous NRA for the Advanced Booster had a requirement for an SF33. Is an SF33 required for this NRA?

Answer 2: An SF33 shall be submitted with the Model Contract. Attachment 1, Model Contract is amended to add an SF33 in a “.pdf” fillable form and is available on FedBizOps, NAIS, and NSPIRES.